Dear John,

I presented the names which you suggested to the Dean's Committee for External Review of the Department of Chemistry. Thank you for your consideration of the Department's problems/directions. They will be considered.

John, if you are ever to have credibility as a research chemist again - and have your earlier sound contributions remembered as such - you must admit your belief in transmutation of the elements was falsely based. All of us get off course occasionally - Be proud of your real electrochemistry - Those books - your lasting work - I strongly advise you to drop the pretense of being wronged - or suppressed - for you have not been at all. Be a big man - admit your mistake and move on/back into responsible science.

Wish you well - Marcetta ~~Wenderson~~
