Hi John,

I know that Tony Tether, former head of DARPA, saw a demo, He said if it was a hoax, it was a damn good one. Folks at NRL saw a couple of demos. When they began asking questions, Rossi left in a huff. I also know of folks who have asked to see a demo who have been turned down. My guess is that Rossi and company were expecting to get a glowing report from Krivit, which is why they gave him a demo. That did not happen. So I suspect they will selectively pick and choose who they give demos to.
